Related subject: New Booundary Areas for Coucillors

Hi, I have seen that even though we have substantial new building works for house springing up everywhere in Thanet the commission thinks that there should be fewer councillors to represent all of the affected residents. I do not think that this is appropriate or fair, neither new residents or the existing residents would be fairly represented.

I live in Nethercourt, Ramsgate and have seen many unwanted changes since I purchase my property in 2011 and I have lived in the area with family since 2008. No one wanted Manston to reopen yet the government forced a sale and insisted that it did and now prime growing land has been turned into housing not for the people of this area which has a 12 year waiting lists for social housing I know because family members have been told they have no chance of a council property probably until their children are grown up!

I think the commission should therefore consider upping the number or councillors on the council rather than reducing the numbers so that local residents actually have a chance to have a better say on what affects their lives
