It has come to my attention that a further attempt is being made to destroy the culture and character of Eldwick by merging it with part of Baildon - several miles yonder

I strongly and vociferously object to this continual meddling.

Eldwick (as with Baildon) has its own unique culture and amenity, it is in an enviable position of achievement and should be maintained at all costs.

We do not want to be homogenised into a greater unitary area for the convenience of administration, We are very well administered by those that know us all best, those that live in the village and participate very successfully in maintaining its character and utility.

Please register my protest
