Eldwick should not be divided between Bingley and Baildon. My wife and I have lived in Eldwick for more than 25 years and we have always considered the village to be part of Bingley. Baildon is over the hill - out of sight and out of mind. We use Bingley for its shops, entertainment, eating out and other services. We never go to Baildon. It is a ridiculous idea to somehow think that people living in Eldwick have any affiliation of any kind with Baildon other than using it as a short cut to Shipley. Let's hope common sense and the people's wishes prevail.
