Related subject: Aveley and Uplands

We live at the bottom of Purfleet Road, which under current recommendations would become part of Purfleet-on-Thames. However, I have lived here for 89 years, all my life, and have always regarded it as Aveley. All the services we use are in Aveley, and we rarely go into Purfleet at all. There is green belt land separating us from Purfleet and we are definitely separate towns. The A13 is not a natural boundary, as there is a road and foot bridge over it, with no junction. The current proposals would divide the community of Aveley and we strongly disagree with this.
