If I've understood the excel file Broughton's excellent councillors work tirelessly to represent 4500 each... So must have a disproportionate caseload compared to wards that are below average (3547). And wards that are below average have a disproportionate say in council matters... This must be a priority to rectify. I assume the excel spreadsheet is the current wards and projected population in 2029, it would be helpful to have the equivalent calculated based on the new ward boundaries.

Broughton, Willen and Milton Keynes are similar areas with shared pavilion's and local centres, all using Willen lake and Broughton Linear Park for recreation so it's a sensible grouping.
