The proposed changes go completely against the ways in which the community in Jesmond Vale lives. There are many young families in the area, almost all of whom send their children to school in Jesmond: their schools, clubs, the playgrounds they go to are all there. The idea that the A1 is a 'hard boundary' goes completely against how we live: we cross at Cradlewell or the Coast Road multiple times a day: to get to school (most walk or cycle), to do shopping in Cradlewell and Jesmond, to go to the GP and the dentist.
