I think it's an outrage with the plans to build yet more houses in the fields on the back of Balldoon sands in Acklam, the wooded areas are part of nature and again the council run by toffs who don't live in the area want to line their pockets with cash without a care in the world for everyone else, where's the carbon footprint in all this? I and I'm not the only one I assure you who is completely outraged with this plan. Leave the green belts alone around Acklam, why don't you invest your money into revamping our dying town instead of shoving your heads in the sand...wake up...the town is dying rebuild the town centre, help the homeless, clean up the streets but no...the council want to build more houses by destroying nature!!! the council need to be held accountable for this
