The draft recommendations for Hugglescote Sence and Hugglescote St John's Wards should be amended. For a start Hugglescote St John's doesn't even include St John's!

The proposed boundaries actually split the 'original' village almost in half and appears to be trying to separate the main hub of the village. It would be much better if the boundary of the new Hugglescote Sence Ward was following the old railway line (north south) and Ellistown East was adjusted with it to make it a justifiable size. These two areas are the ones where the most increased population will be occuring and are much more aligned to each other than to St John's.
