Old Hill is currently split between Rowley and Cradley Heath and Old Hill, despite it only being a small town which should easily be possible to keep together so we have just one set of Councillors rather than two different sets with competing priorities.

I live in Waggon Street which is just a couple of minutes' walk to Old Hill High Street. Someone who lives opposite on Best Street has the same walk to the high street but is in a different ward. This makes no sense and confuses residents who do not understand why the Old Hill Councillors do not represent them.

Please could you consider uniting Old Hill under one ward. I understand that the town would not be big enough to be one ward by itself, but we are equally close to both Blackheath and Cradley Heath. Cradley Heath is quite a large area so perhaps Blackheath would be better so you pair two smaller towns together and then we can have a united Old Hill town in one ward with one set of councillors representing us.
