Related subject: Changing electoral boundaries

The existing boundaries work well especially for the area I live in. They are currently served by local people looking after the interests of those people in their constituency. The proposed boundaries are too large and will remove local focus on important matters to each area. Leaving the boundaries as they are seems the obvious most cost effective choice as they work and no costs incurred leaving them as they are. As the going says if it's not broke, don't fix it (especially when doing so wil cost us taxpayers money)
