West Marsh ward is one of the oldest parts of Grimsby. Like East Marsh on the other side of the railway tracks, it holds a significant part of Grimsby's history as the areas where the port grew and people settled.

Both East and West have their own distinct communities, and many families who have lived their for generations. Many others of us can track our family back to one of those wards, and we know very well which side of the tracks (and the river) our ancestors came from. Taking away the West Marsh ward would remove a vital and important piece of our heritage. A plea from me that you look towards expanding West Marsh by perhaps taking some of freshney, yarborough or park rather than combining West and East which just would not work for the town and would actually create more problems than it would solve.
