Comment text:

We in North Craven were 25 miles from the centre of our local authority which felt quite remote. But Craven councillors represented about 2000 constituents each (by 2021 figures) so was "close" & "local".

North Yorkshire Council is based in Northallerton, 56 miles away. North Yorkshire population (again 2021 figures) divided by the proposed 89 councillors = 22,700 per councillor doesn't feel "local" or "representative" - it's a world away!
